

Works Council in Germany for employers and HR

The essentials in one day

If a company has a works council, its entrepreneurial freedom is restricted. The Works Constitution Act, which governs collaboration between the works council and the employer, is therefore a highly relevant area of law. Managers and HR professionals face a veritable jungle of legal provisions. What needs to be considered in daily practice? What are the tasks and rights of the works council? Which rules must be observed? In this seminar you will get an introduction and a substantial overview of the participation of the works council in Germany.
